Cel przedmiotu

The aim of the course is to familiarize students with creating of three-dimensional models and prototypes of technological tools and appliances, with calculation of prototypes, with the analysis of their producibility (in terms of work), with possibilities of design of virtual model and with giving them right features as well as with possibilities of automatic technical documentation generation.

Wymagania wstępne

Mechanics and Strength of Materials, Fundamentals of Machine Design, Technical mechanics, Fundamentals of Engineering Design

Zakres tematyczny

The content of the laboratory:

Introduction to computer aided design. Tools and functions of modules. Conception project. Work with digital model. Creating three-dimensional models of objects (virtual equivalents). Three-dimensional structure of tools prototypes. Three-dimensional structure of appliances prototypes. Work with model (material, features, calculations). Automatic generation of simple three-dimensional models. Visual reflection of the virtual prototype (rendering). Generation of technical documentation. Prototype analysis. Model producibility - structural changes. Three-dimensional structure of tools prototypes. Three-dimensional structure of appliances prototypes.

Metody kształcenia

Laboratories are given with the use of computer software – methods: problem tasks, solution analysis. Individual and group job during the realization of laboratory exercises.
